Bay. V Long live the King,

Fran. Barnardo.

Bar. Hee.

Fran. You come most carefully vpon your houre,

Bar. Tis now strooke twelfe, get thee to bed Francisco,

Fran. For this reliefe much thanks, tis bitter cold,

And I am fick at hart.

Bar. Haue you had quiet guard?

Fran. Not a mousestirring.

Bar. Well, good night:

If you doe meete Horatio and Marcellus,

The riualls of my watch, bid them make hast.

Enter Horatio, and Marcellus.

Fran. I thinke I heare them, stand ho, who is there :"

Hora. Friends to this ground.

Mar. And Leedgemen to the Dane,

Fran. Giueyou good night.

Mar. O, farwell honest souldiers, who hath relieu'd you!

an. Barnardo hath my place; giue you good night. Exit Fran.

Mar. Holla, Bamardo.

Bar. Say, what is Horatio there?

Hora. A peece of him.

Bar. Welcome Horatio, welcome good Marcellus,

Hora. What, ha's this thing appeard againe to night?

Bar. I have feene nothing.

Mar. Horatio faies tis but our fantafie,

And will not let beliefe take holde of him,

Touching this dreaded fight twice seene of vs,

Therefore I have intreated him along,

With vs to watch the minuts of this night,

That if againe this apparition come,

He may approoue our eyes and speake to it.

Hora. Tufh, tufh, twill not appeare.

Bar. Sit downea while,

And let vs once againe affaile your eares,

That are so fortified against our story,

What we have two nights feene.

Hora. Well, fit we downe,

And let vs heare Barnardo Speake of this.

Bar. Last night of all,

When youd same starre thats weastward from the pole,

Had made his course t'illume that part of heaven

Where now it burnes, Marcellus and my felfe

The bell then beating one.

Enter Ghoft.

Mar. Peace, breake thee of, looke where it comes againe.

Bar. In the same figure like the King thats dead.

Mar. Thou art a scholler, speake to it Horatio.

Bar. Lookes a not like the King ? marke it Horatio.

Hora. Most like, it horrowes me with feare and wonder.

Ba. It would be spoke to.

Mar. Speake to it Horatio.

Hora. What art thou that vsurpft this time of night,

Together with that faire and warlike forme,

In which the Maiestie of buried Denmarke

Did sometimes march, by heaven I charge thee speake,

Mar. It is offended; and any amin for the monte want

Barl See it flaukes away trogonia to blown it il hand

Hora. Stay, speake, speake, I charge thee speake.

Mar. Tis gone and will not answere.

Bar. How now Horatio, you tremble and looke pale,

Is not this fomthing more then phantalie?

What thinke you-ont?

Hora. Before my God I might not this believe,

Without the sencible and true auouch

Of mine owne eies.

f mine owne eies.

Mar. Is it not like the King?

Hra. As thou art to thy felfe. Such was the very Armor he had on,
When he the ambitious Normay combated, So frownd he once, when in an angry parle

He fmot the fleaded pollax on the ice.

Tis strange.

Mar. Thus twice before, and iump at this dead houre,

With martiall stauke hath he gone by our watch.

Hora. In what perticular thought, to worke I know not,

But in the groffe and scope of mine opinion, This bodes some strange eruption to our state.

Mar. Good now fit downe, and tell me he that knowes,

Why this same strikt and most observant watch

So nightly toiles the fubiect of the land,

And with fuch dayly cost of brazon Cannon And forraine marte, for implements of warre,

Why such impresse of ship-writes, whose fore taske

Does not deuide the Sunday from the weeke,

What might be toward that this sweaty hast

Doth make the night joynt labourer with the day,

Who ift that can informe mee?

Hora. That can I.

At least the whisper goes so; our last King, Whose image even but now appear'd to vs, Was as you knowe by Fortinbraffe of Norway, Thereto prickt on by a most emulate pride Dar'd to the combat; in which our valiant Hemlet, (For so this side of our knowne world esteemd him) Did flay this Fortinbraffe, who by a feald compact Well ratified by lawe and heraldy was the constraint

Did forfait (with his life) all thefe his lands Which he flood feaz'd of, to the conquerour. Against the which a moitie competent Was gaged by our King, which had returne To the inheritance of Fortinbraffe, Had he bin vanquisher; as by the same comart, And carriage of the article desleigne, His fell to Hamlet ; now Sir, young Fortinbraffe Of vnimprooued mettle, hot and full, Hath in the skirts of Norway heere and there Sharkt vp a lift of laweleffe resolutes For foode and diet to some enterprise That hath a stomacke in't, which is no other As it doth well appeare vnto our state But to recouer of vs by frong hand And tearmes compulfatory, those foresaid lands So by his father loft; and this I take it, Is the maine motine of our preparations The source of this our watch, and the chiefe head Of this post half and Romadge in the land. Bar. I thinke it benoother, but enfo; Well may it fort that this portentous figure Comes armed through our watch fo hke the King That was and is the question of these warres. Hra. A moth it is to trouble the mindes eye: In the most high and palmy state of Rome, A little ere the mightiest Iulius fell The graves stood tennatlesse, and the sheeted dead Did squeake and gibber in the Roman streets As starres with traines of fier, and dewes of blood Disasters in the sunne; and the moist starre, Vpon whose influence Neptunes Empier Stands, Was ficke almost to doomesday with eclipse. And even the like precurle of feare events As harbindgers preceading still the fates And prologue to the Omen comming on Haue heaven and earth together demonstrated

Vnto our Climatures and countrymen.

Enter Ghoft.

Bar. It was about to speake when the cock crewe. Hor. And then it started like a guilty thing, Vpon a fearefull fummons ; I have heard, The Cock that is the trumper to the morne, Doth with his lofty and shrill founding throat Awake the God of day, and at his warning Whether in fea or fire, in earth or ayre Th'extrauagant and erring spirit hies To his confine, and of the truth heerein dennish day of the way a This present object made probation. Mar. It faded on the crowing of the Cock.

Some say that ever gainst that season comes
Wherein our Sauiours birth is celebrated
This bird of dawning singeth all night long,
And then they say no spirit dare sturre abraode
The nights are wholsome, then no planners strike,
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charme

So hallowed, and so gratious is that time.

Hora. So have I heard and doe in part believe it,

But looke the morne in russet mantle clad

Walkes ore the dewe of you high Eastward hill

Breake we our watch vp and by my aduse

Let vs impart what we have seene to night

Vnto young Hamlet, for vppon my life

This spirit dumb to vs, will speake to him:

Doe you consent we shall acquaint him with it

As needfull in our loves, fitting our duty.

Mar. Lets doo't I pray, and I this morning knowe

Where we shall find him most convenient.

Oph. O my Lord, my Lord, I have beene so affrighted,

Pol. With what i'th name of God?

Ophe. My Lord, as I was fowing in my closset,

Lord Hamlet with his doublet all vnbrac'd, No hat vpon his head, his stockins fouled, Vngartred, and downe gyued to his ancle,

Pale as his thirt, his knees knocking each other,

And with a looke so pittious in purport

As if he had been loofed out of hell

To speake of horrors, he comes before me.

Pol. Mad for thy loue?

Oph. My lord I doe not know,

But truly I doe feare it.

Pol. What faid he?

Opb. He tooke me by the wrift, and held me hard,

Then goes he to the length of all his arme,

And with his other hand thus ore his brow,

He falls to fuch perufall of my face

As a would draw it, long flayd he fo,

At last, a little shaking of mine arme,

And thrice his head thus waiing vp and downe,

He raild a figh fo pittious and profound

As it did feeme to shatter all his bulke,

And end his beeing; that done, he lets me goe,

And with his head ouer his shoulder turn'd

Hee feem'd to find his way without his eyes,

For out adoores he went without theyr helps,

And to the last bended their light on me.

Ile bord him presently, oh give me leave,

How dooes my good Lord Hamlet

Ham. Well, God a mercy.

Pol Doe you know e me my Lord? Jun 19 4 10/2 15

Han. Excellent well, you are a Fishmonger.

Pol. Not I my Lord. Minde b for a bit to borsha work

Ham. Then I would you were so honest a man.

Pol. Honest my Lord.

Ham. I fir to be honest as this world goes,

Is to be one man pickt out of tenne thousand,

Pol. That's very true my Lord.

Han. For if the funne breede maggots in a dead dogge, being a good kissing carrion. Haue you a daughter?

Pol. I haue my Lord.

Ham. Let her not walke i'th Sunne, conception is a blessing,

But as your daughter may conceaue, friend looke to't.

Pol. How fay you by that, still harping on my daughter, yet bee knewe me not at first, a sayd I was a Fishmonger, a is farre gone, and truly in my youth, I suffred much extremity for loue, very neere this. Ile speake to him againe. What doe you reade my Lord.

Ham. Words, words, words.

Pol. What is the matter my Lord.

Ham. Betweene who.

Pol. I meane the matter that you reade my Lord.

Ham. Slaunders fir , for the fatericall rogue fayes heere, that old men have gray beards, that their faces are wrinckled, their eyes purging thick Amber, & plumtree gum, & that they have a plen-

Ham. Then is Doomes day neere, but your newes is not true; But in the beaten way of friendship, what make you at Elsonome?

Rof. To visit you my Lord, no other occasion.

Ham. Begger that I am, I am ever poore in thankes, but I thanke you, and fure deare friends, my thankes are too deare a halfpeny: were you not fent for? is it your owne inclining? is it a free vilitation? come, come, deale iustly with me, come, come, nay speake.

Gip. What should we say my Lord?

How. Anything but to'th purpole : you were fent for, and there is a kind of confession in your lookes, which your modelties have not graftenough to cullour, I know the good King and Queene have Cent for you.

Rof. To what end my Lord?

Ham. That you must teach me : but let me conjure you, by the rights of our fellowship, by the consonancie of our youth, by the obligation of our ever preferred love; and by what more deare a better propoler can charge you withall, bee even and direct with me whether you were fent for or no.

Rof. What fay you.

Ham. Nay then I have an eye of you if you love me hold not of.

God! My Lord we were fent for.

MALE AND THE SHOP OF THE PARTY WHILE WIND

there he waith our formers and well-

Ger. O what a rash and bloody deede is this.

Ham. A bloody deede, almost as bad, good mother

As kill a King, and marry with his brother.

Ger. As kill a King.

Ham. I Lady, it was my word.

Thou wretched, rash, intruding soole sarwell,
I tooke thee for thy better, take thy fortune,
Thou find'st to be too busie is some danger,
Leaue wringing of your hands, peace sit you downe,
And let me wring your hart, for so I shall
If it be made of penitrable stuffe,
If damned custome have not brass it so,
That it be proofe and bulwark against sence.

Ger. What have I done, that thou dar'st wagge thy tongue

In noise so rude against me?

Ham. Such an act

That blurres the grace and blush of modesty,
Cals vertue hippocrit, takes of the Rose
From the faire torhead of an innocent lone,
And sets a blister there, makes marriage vowes
As false as dicers oathes, ô such a deede,
As from the body of contraction plucks
The very soule, and sweet religion makes
A rapsedy of words; heavens face dooes glowe
Ore this solidity and compound masse
With heated visage, as against the doome
Is thought sick at the act
Once. Ay me, what act?

Hum. That roares so low'd, and thunders in the Index,
Looke heere vpon this Picture, and on this,
The counterfeit presentment of two brothers,
See what a grace was seated on this browe,
Hiperions curses, the front of love himselfe,
An eye like Mars, to threaten and command,
A station like the herald Mercury,
New lighted on a heave, a kissing hill,
A combination, and a forme indeede,
Where every God did seeme to set his seale
To give the world assurance of a man,

This was your husband, looke you now what followes, Heere is your husband like a mildewed eare, And the state of the state Blafting his wholfome brother, have you eyes, Could you on this faire mountaine leave to feede, And batten on this Moore; ha, haue you eyes? You cannot call it love, for at your age The heyday in the blood is tame, it's humble, / har A And waits vppon the judgement, and what judgement Would step from this to this, sence sure youe have Els could you not have motion, but fure that fence Is appoplext, for madnelle would not erre Nor sence to extacie was nere so thral'd But it referu'd some quantity of choise To serve in such a difference, what deuill wast Eyes without feeling, feeling without fight, Eares without hands, or eyes, smelling sance all, Or but a fickly part of one true fence Could not fo mope : ô shame where is thy blush : Blow I Row is free har out advis World Rebellious hell, If thou canst mutine in a Matrons bones, To flaming youth let vertue be as wax And melt in her owne fire, proclaime no shame When the compulfiue ardure gives the charge, Since frost it selfe as actively doth burne, the self all the beat And reason pardons will. Ger. O speake to me no more, These words like daggers enter in my eares, who would be No more sweete Hanlet. Han. A murtherer and a villaine,

A saue that is not twentith part the kyth

Of your precedent Lord, a vice of Kings, A cut-purse of the Empire and the rule, sall based and and the rule That from a shelfe the precious Diadem stole And put it in his pocket. And barrent ent. Moore a ha, haue your Ger. No more.

Emer Chost. Ta tot such at las sonnas po Y Ham. A King of fhreds and parches, 12 boole and a (ab talled) Saue me and houer ore me with your wings You heavenly gards: what would your gracious figure? Ger. Alashee's mad.

Ham. Doe you not come your tardy fonne to chide, That lap'ft in time and passion lets goe by Th'important acting of your dread command, ô fay.

Ghost. Doe not forget, this visitation Is but to whet thy almost blunted purpose, But looke, amazement on thy mother fits, Oftep betweene her, and her fighting foule, Conceit in weakest bodies strongest workes, Speake to her Hamlet.

Ham. How is it with you Lady?

That you doe bend your eye on vacancie, And with th'incorporall ayre doe hold discourses Foorth at your eyes your spirits wildly peep, unling the said the wild And as the fleeping fouldiers in thalarme, who are offered out a mil Your bedded haire like life in excrements live acobit que los bala Start vp and fland an end, ô gentle forme sales it was O ... V pon the heat and flame of thy diffemper (Y vay you have noth)

Sprinckle coole patience, whereon doe you looke? I state A Ham. On him, on him, looke you how pale he glares, His forme and cause comound, preaching to stones Would make them capable, dee not looke vpon me, Least with this pertious action you convert dinouqui pros in bewer? My stearne effects, then what I have to doe Will want true cullour, teares perchance for blood.

To whom doe you speake this ? Ham. Doe you fee nothing there?

Nothing at all, yet all that is I fee. The latter A . wall

Ham. Nor did you nothing heare? Ger. No nothing but our selves

Ham. Why looke you there, looke how it steales away,

My father in his habit as he lived,

Looke where he goes, even now out at the portall.

Ger. This is the very coynage of your braine,

This bodilesse creation extacte is very cunning in.

Ham. My pulle as yours doth temperatly keepe time, And makes as healthfull mulicke, it is not madnelle That I have vttred, bring me to the tell, And the matter will reword, which madnelle Would gambole from, mother for love of grace, Lay not that flattering vn tion to your foule That not your trespasse but my madnesses peakes, It will but skin and filme the vicerous place Whiles ranck corruption mining all within Infects vnseene, confesse your selfe to heaven,

Repent what's past, auoyd what is to come,

And doe not spread the compost on the weedes

To make them rancker, forgiue me this my vertue,

For in the fatnesse of these pursie times Vertue it selfe of vice must pardon beg,

Yea curbe and wooe for leaue to doe him good.

Ger. O Hamlet thou hast cleft my hart in twaine.

Ham. O throwe away the worler part of it, And leave the purer with the other halfe,

Good night, but goe not to my Vncles beds

Assune a vertue if you have it not,

That monfler cullome, who all sence doth cate

Of habits deuill, is angell yet in this

That to the vie of actions faire and good,

Helikewise gives a frock or Livery

That aptly is put on to refraine night,

And that shall lend a kind of easines

To the next abstinence, the next more easie:

For vie almost can change the stamp of nature,

And either the deuill, or throwe him out

With wonderous potency : once more good night,

And when you are defirous to be bleft,

He blessing beg of you, for this same Lord

I doe repent; but heaven hath pleased it so

Exit GboH.

To punish me with this, and this with me,
That I must be their scourge and minister,
I will bestowe him and will answere well
The death I gaue him; so againe good night
I must be cruell only to be kinde,
This bad beginnes, and worse remaines behind.
One word more good Lady.

Ger. What shall I doe!

Hum. Not this by no meanes that I bid you doe, Let the blowt King temp't you againe to bed, Pinch wanton on your cheeke, call you his Mouse, And let him for a paire of reechie killes, Or padling in your necke with his damn'd fingers. Make you to rouell all this matter out That I ellentially am not in madneffe, But mad in craft, t'were good you let him knowe, For who that's but a Queene, faire, fober, wife, . Would from a paddack, from a bat, a gib, Such deare concernings hide, who would doe fo, No, in dispight of sence and secrecy, Vnpeg the basket on the houses top, Let the birds fly, and like the famous Ape, To try conclusions in the basket creepe, And breake your owne necke downe.

Ger. Be thou assur'd, if words be made of breath And breath of life, I have no life to breath What thou hast fayd to me.

Ham. I must to England, you knowe that.

Ger. Alack I had forgot.

Tis fo concluded on.

Ham. Ther's letters seald, and my two Schoolefellowes, Whom I will trust as I will Adders fang'd, They beare the mandat, they must sweep my way And marshall me to knauery: let it worke, For tis the sport to have the enginer Hoist with his owne petar, an't shall goe hard But I will delue one yard belowe their mines, And blowe them at the Moone: ô tis most sweete When in one line two crafts directly meete,

This man shall set me packing,
Ile lugge the guts into the neighbour roome;
Mother good night indeed, this Counsayler
Is now most still, most secret, and most graue,
Who was in life a most foolish prating knaue.
Come sir, to draw toward an end with you,
Good night mother.

Exit.

Eenter King, and Queene, with Rosencraus and Guyldensterne.

You must translate, tis fit we vnderstand them,
Where is your sonne?

Ger. Bestow this place on vs a little while.

Ah mine owne Lord, what have I seene to night?

King. What Gertrard, how dooes Hamlet?

Ger. Mad as the sea and wind when both contend
Which is the mightier, in his lawlesse fit,

Behind the Arras hearing some thing stirre,
Whyps out his Rapier, cryes a Rat, a Rat,
And in this brainish apprehension kills

The ynfeene good old man.

King. O heavy deede!

It had beene so with vs had wee been there,
His libertie is full of threates to all,
To you your selfe, to vs, to every one,
Alas, how shall this bloody deede be answer'd?

It will be layd to vs, whose providence
Should have kept short, restraind, and out of haunt
This mad young man; but so much was our love,
We would not understand what was most sit,
But like the owner of a soule disease
To keepe it from divulging, let it seede
Even on the pith of life: where is he gone?

Ger. To draw apart the body he hath kild,
Ore whom, his very madnes like some ore
Among a minerall of mettals base,
Showes it selfe pure, a weepes for what is done.

King. O Gertrard, come away,

Pop't in betweene th'election and my hopes,
Throwne out his Angle for my proper life,
And with such cusnage, i'st not perfect conscience?

Enter a Courtier.

Cour. Your Lordship is right welcome backe to Denmarke.

Hom. I humble thanke you fir.
Dooft know this water fly?

Hora. No my good Lord.

Ham. Thy state is the more gracious, for tis a vice to know him, He hath much land and fertill: let a beast be Lord of beasts, and his crib shall stand at the Kings messe, tis a chough, but as Isay, spacious in the possession of durt.

Cour. Sweete Lord, if your Lordshippe were at leasure, I should impart a thing to you from his Maiestie.

2 37-27 30 20 11 76.5

Ham. I will recease it fir withall dilligence of spirit, your bonnet to his right vse, tis for the head.

Cour. I thanke your Lordship, it is very hot.

Ham. No belieue me, tis very cold, the wind is Northerly.

Cour. It is indefferent cold my Lord indeed.

Ham. But yet methinkes it is very fully and hot, or my complection.

Com. Exceedingly my Lord, it is very soultery, as 'twere I cannot tell how : my Lord his Maiestie bad me signifie unto you that a has layed a great wager on your head, fir this is the maner.

Ham. Ibeseech you remember.

com to Court Lacres, believe me an absolute gondeman, full of most excellent differences, of very loft fociety, and great showing: indeede to speake sellingly of him, hee is the card or kalender of gentry: for you shall find in him the continent of what part a Gentleman would see.

Ham. Sir, his definement suffers no perdition in you, though I know to decide him inventorially, would do fie th' arithmaticke of memory, and yet but yaw neither in respect of his quick saile, but in the veritie of extolment, I take him to be a soule of great article, & his infusion of such dearth and rarenesse, as to make true dixion of him, his semblable is his mirrour, & who els would trace him, his vmbrage, nothing more.

Cour. Your Lordship speakes most infallibly of him.

Ham. The concernancy fir, why doe we wrap the gentleman in our more rawer breath?

Cour. Sir.

Hora. Ist not possible to vnderstand in another tongue, you will too't fir really.

Han. What imports the nomination of this gentleman.

Cour. Of Lacries.

Hora. His purse is empty already, all's golden words are spent.

Ham. Of him fir.

Com. I know you are not ignorant.

Ham. I would you did sir, yet in faith if you did, it would not much approoue me, well sir,

Com. You are not ignorant of what excellence Laertes is.

Ham. I dare not confesse that, least I should compare with him in excellence, but to know a man wel, were to know e himselfe.

Cour. I meane fir for this weapon, but in the imputation laide on him, by them in his meed, hee's vnfellowed.

Ham. What's his weapon?

Haw. That's two of his weapons, but well.

against the which hee has impaund as I take it six French Rapiers and Poniards, with their assignes, as girdle, hanger and so. Three of the carriages in faith, are very deare to fancy, very reponsitue to the hilts, most delicate carriages, and of very liberall conceit.

Ham. War call you the carriages !

Hora. I knew you must be edified by the margent ere you had done

Cour. The carriage fir are the hangers.

Ham. The phrase would bee more Ierman to the matter if wee could carry a cannon by our sides, I would it be hangers till then, but on, six Barbry horses against six French swords their assignes, and three liberall conceited carriages, that's the French bet against the Danish, why is this all you call it?

your selfe and him, hee shall not exceede you three hits, hee hath layd on twelve for nine, and it would come to immediate triall, if your Lordshippe would vouchsafe the answere.

Ham. How if I answere no?

Cour. I meane my Lord the opposition of your person in triall.

Ham. Sir I will walke heere in the hall, if it please his Maiestie, it is the breathing time of day with me, let the foiles be brought, the Gentleman willing, and the King hold his purpose; I will winne for him and I can, if not, I will gaine nothing but my shame, and the odde hits.

Cour. Shall I deliuer you fo?

Ham. To this effect fir, after what florish your nature will.

Cour. I commend my duty to your Lordshippe.

Ham. Yours doo's well to commend it himselfe, there are no tongues els for's turne.

Hora. This Lapwing runnes away with the shell on his head.

Ham. A did fir with his dugge before a suckt it, thus has he and many more of the same breede that I know the drossly age dotes on, only got the tune of the time, and out of an habit of incounter, a kind of histy colection, which carries them through and through the most prophane and trennowed opinions, and doe but blowe them to their triall, the bubbles are out.

Entera Lord.

Officke, who brings backe to him that you attend him in the hall, he sends to know if your pleasure hold to play with Exerces, of that you will take longer time?

Hum. I am constant to my purposes, they follow the King's pleasure, if his fitnes speakes, mine is ready: now or when so ever prouided I be so able as now.

Ham. In happy time.

Lord. The Queene desires you to vse some gentle entertainment to Laertes, before you fall to play.

Ham. Shee well instructs me.
Hora. You will loose my Lord.

Ham. I doe not thinke so, since he went into France, I have bene in continual practise, I shall winne at the ods; thou would'st not thinke how ill all's heere about my hart, but it is no matter.

Hora. Nay good my Lord.

Ham. It is but foolery, but it is such a kinde of gamgiuing, as would perhapes trouble a woman.

Hora. If your minde diflike any thing, obay it. I will forftal their repaire hether, and fay you are not fit.

Han. Not a whit, we defie augury, there is speciall prouidence in the fall of a Sparrowe, if it be, tis not to come, if it be not to come, it will be now, if it be not now, yet it well come, the readines is all, fince no man of ought he leaves, knowes what ist to leave betimes, let be.

King. Come Hamlet, come and take this hand from me.

Ham. Giue me your pardon fir, I have done you wrong,
But pardon't as you are a gentleman, this presence knowes,
And you must needs have heard, how I am punnisht
With a fore distraction, what I have done
That might your nature, honor, and exception

Enter Ofrick.

Ofr. Young Fortenbraffe with conquest come from Poland, To th'embassadors of England gives this warlike volly.

H.m. OI die Horatio,

The potent poyson quite ore-crowes my spirit,
I cannot live to heare the newes from England,
But I doe prophecie th'ellection lights
On Fortinbrasse, he has my dying voyce,
So tell him, with th'occurrants more and lesse
Which have solicited, the rest is silence.

Hera. Now cracks a noble hart, good night sweete Prince,
And flights of Angels sing thee to thy rest.

You from the Pollack warres, and you from England Are heere arrived, give order that these bodies High on a stage be placed to the view, And let me speake, to yet vnknowing world How these things came about; so shall you heate Of carnall, bloody and vnnaturall acts, Of accidentall judgements, casuall slaughters, Of deaths put on by cunning, and for no cause And in this vpshot, purposes missooke, Falne on th'inventers heads: all this can I Truly deliver.

For. Let vs halt to heare it,

And call the noblest to the audience.

For me, with forrowe I embrace my fortune,
I have some rights, of memory in this kingdome,
Which now to clame my vantage doth inuite me.

Hora. Of that I shall have also cause to speake,
And from his mouth, whose voyce will drawe no more,
But let this same be presently perform d
Euen while mens mindes are wilde, least more mischance
On plots and errores happen.

For. Let foure Captaines
Beare Hamlet like a fouldier to the stage,
For he was likely, had he beene put on,
To have prooued most royall; and for his passage,
The souldiers musicke and the right of warre
Speake loudly for him:
Take vp the bodies, such a sight as this,
Becomes the field, but heere showes much amisse.
